PART TWENTY SIX.

July 3, 1852. The Norway Advertiser has reappeared after two months' suspension due to the fire, and presents a handsome appearance. It labors under the disadvantage of having had its subscription list burned.

At the Oxford county Republican convention held at Paris, last week, the following nominations were made: James W. Clark, Andover, and Eeky T. Stevens, Lovell, Senators; County Commissioners, George F. Hammond, Paris; Franz Bradley, Fryeburg; Clerk of Courts, Albert S. Austin, Dixfield; County Attorney, James S. Wright, Paris; County Treasurer, Jarvis C. Marble, Paris; Sheriff, Jordan S. Porter.

July 22. Mr. Joseph French, of Oxford Village, died quite suddenly in his lay field, Tuesday week, from heart disease with which he had been suffering for some time. His age was 74 years.

"The hay crop in the vicinity of Bryant's Pond will be light, only about two-thirds that of 1891. There is more travel than ever before, through that way to Andover and the Lakes. Tuttle & Perkins have lately put on their stage route a new $600 coach.

"A. O. Pike, Esq., senior proprietor of the Oxford House, and a life long temperance man, delivered a temperance lecture in the vestry of the Congregational church, Fryeburg, Sunday evening. There is a strong talk of making Mr. Pike a candidate for Senator to the State Legislature at the coming Democratic county convention for Oxford.

"The Home School, by Miss H. E. Douglass, located at the residence of the late Rev. John A. Douglass, at Waterville, is meeting the wants of young ladies who desire to obtain an education, but who are unable to, incur large expense. The location of the school is in the midst of the country, and the school surroundings are of the best kind. See advertise ment."

HIGH SCHOOL.

The fourth year of this school for girls commences Wednesday, Aug. 30, 1912. Fall term twelve weeks. Board, tuition, fuel and lights, $125.00 per year of thirty-eight weeks. Music extra.

For circulars for application for admission, address,
Miss H. E. Douglass, Principal.
Who knows the history of this school and will tell it in the Citizen.

July 29. A town meeting in Andover, called for the 23th, to set up on various matters, but principally to see what action the town will take in regard to the steam mill Mr. O. P. South proposes to build.

The Democrats at their convention to Paris Wednesday, the 13th, filled the vacancies left by the greenbacks on the county ticket, as follows: Senator, Western District, Asa O. Pike; County Attorney, A. R. Kimball, Waterville; County Commissioner, (Eastern) W. A. Frothingham; Register of Deeds (Western) E. G. Osgood.

"Monday week at the Hiram terminus at the Bridgton railroad, Engineer Stockman threw up the first shovel full of earth, and J. A. Bennett, clerk of the Bridgton selection, the week. There are to be some six six days—one at Hiram, the terminus, and at Perkins' Mills, at Parley and Berry's Mills, at the Denmark road, at Sandy Creek, and the sixth at Bridgton Centre."

Aug. 12. Miss Jennie M. daughter of Dr. J. P. Sweet, of Hiram, was married Aug. 1st, to Alfred G. Little of Portland, on the lawn, beneath an arch composed of ferns and palm leaves, a gift from her father-in-law, at the Hiram. The ceremony was performed by Dr. J. P. Sweet of Westbrook. The bride was in a white gown, and the groom in a dark suit.

MECHANICS BUILD- ING AT RUMFORD.

On Wednesday, a three days fair opened in the new Mechanics' Institute at Rumford. This is not the formal dedication, however. That will occur on Nov. 9, at 2 o'clock p. m. Attractive invitations have been sent out to the leading business men of the State, including the Governor and Council. This beautiful building is made possible largely through the generosity of Hugh J. Chisholm, The International Paper Company, the Oxford Paper Company, and the Continental Paper Bag Company are financially interested in the building, and are active in making the institute a success.

The finish of the interior of the building is mahogany. One of the most beautiful rooms is the lounge room which is 80x40. A large fireplace is at one end of the room and on the front it is connected with the balcony by windows and glass doors. The furnishings include two Davenport of green leather, also a double one in the center of the room, also many easy chairs and small chairs. Then there is the ladies' parlor. This is finished in mahogany. Three art squares add much to the appearance of the room. The library or reading room is lack of this. Off the corridor is the ladies' coat room and toilet and further along is the gentlemen's coat room and toilet. On this floor is located the superintendent's office and the board of governor's room; also a writing room which is furnished with desks and chairs. The pool, billiard and card rooms are on one end of this floor.

On the third floor is a large lecture room, also class room, but the greater portion is taken up by the gymnasium, which is fully equipped.

The board of governors have used great discretion in letting the stores on the ground floor. The largest one on the corner of Exchange and Congress is occupied by Chas. E. Fernald, the druggist. A J. Fernald, the barber, occupies the Exchange street store. Next to Fernald's store is the Rumford Candy Kitchen, which is certainly the best store of its kind in the county.

The Woplow Company that has 10 rent stores all over New England, will occupy the large store below the main entrance.

The next room has been divided and Louis Askeoff occupies one part for his shoe-repairing business, while Mrs. Johnson, the milliner, occupies the other half.

The committee for the dedication includes Walter Pettigill, chairman; Henry Q. Hawes, formerly of Westbrook, secretary; John H. Hassett, superintendent of the local mill of the P. Company; Theodore Hawley, superintendent of the Continental Paper Bag mill; Jas. W. Harris, general manager of the Oxford Paper Company's mill; Edward B. Kessner, treasurer of the First National Bank of Rumford; Hon. George B. Hildreth; Elmer L. Lovejoy, division superintendent of the Rangeley division of the Maine Central; Martin L. Griffin, Charles Israelson, Orville J. George, Lucian W. Blanchard, C. E. Osgood, P. Edward McCarthy, and Charles L. Brown. A splendid $5,000 host of Mr. Chisholm has just been put in place in the institute.

A special train is to run to accommodate the people who wish to attend the dedicatory exercises.

Next week we will give a report of the fair now in progress.

BASKET BALL.

BETHEL VS. RUMFORD.

The basket ball team of A. A. will play the Rumford team next Friday evening at the O. A. gymnasium. This is the first game of the season and it is hoped the boys may have the on courtment your presence will give.

Mrs. Wabash—I see by the papers that last year 13,960 dogs were put to death by the Chicago penitentiary. Mr. Wabash—Why, then, should we urge to no right—Yankers Statemen.

BETHEL GRANGE.

There was a large attendance at the meeting of Bethel Grange last Thursday evening. After the regular work of the Grange was over, an entertainment consisting of a burlesque, entitled "Huckleberry Grange, of Cow Hollow."

The officers of this new Grange were as follows:— Della Glines Grover, Learned Boas Ada Tyler, Justice of the Peace Mrs. R. E. L. Farwell, Honorable Teacher Byron Cummings, Knight of the Broom Florence Baker, Lady of the Broom Alanson Tyler, Knight of the Hoe Lyman Wheeler, Officer of the Hose Mrs. Kendall, Most Rustle Scribbles Lester Wood, Worthy Cereal Howard Tyler, Worthy Pumpkin Ralph Moore, Worthy Sandflower Candidates, Eli Grover, Herman Mason.

They proceeded to open their meeting in undue form and after a lengthy detail of unique business transactions, proceeded to initiate two candidates in a manner that was specially interesting to the audience and evidently not without interest to the candidates. To say that all the members carried out their part in full keeping with the spirit of the occasion is ample commendation, and full of encouragement for any future undertaking in which they may engage. It would be useless to attempt to specialize on any particular actor in the evening's entertainment. All were good.

At the close refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. A committee was chosen before the regular Grange closed, to prepare an entertainment to be given in November. As the evenings are now suitable for indoor instead of outdoor pleasure the interest in the Grange meetings is increasing.

IN MEMORIAM.

A little past the midnight hour on Friday, Oct. 20th, after an illness of a very few weeks from bronchial pneumonia, Mr. Eli Tenney Peabody of Oxford quietly passed to the earthly life. At the funeral which took place in the afternoon of Monday, Oct. 23, Mr. Peabody, the undertaker from Bethel, was the efficient director and the services, consisting of the reading of selections from the Scriptures, prayer, remarks and the benediction, were conducted by Rev. Henry Fafar, for many years a friend of Mr. Peabody's family. The burial was in the cemetery on the south side of the Andover road, near the site once occupied by the old Congregational meeting house.

Mr. Peabody had passed two years beyond the milestone marking the three score and ten, was a native of Oxford, a son of Asa and Rebecca (Wright) Peabody, and was the last of four brothers to depart, of a large family of children, named Asa, Franklin, William Read, Eli Tenney, Charles Henry, Lydia W. and Esther S., the last named daughter being Mrs. Henry Merrill of West Bethel. The other sister also survives him. His partner in life was Miss Anna, daughter of the late P. J. Burbank of Oxford, who with one daughter are his sad survivors.

Mr. Peabody was a man of amiable nature, kind and obliging in disposition and a most worthy citizen of our community. He was a trustee of Oxford's ministerial fund and had filled important offices in the service of his town. In the days of our civil war, when on one occasion our soldiers called for men, he was among the number from Oxford who responded to that call.

While in his own home and with those nearest of him his loss will be most keenly felt, yet the Grange of which he was a member and his associates in business will miss his kindly presence.

On the day of the funeral, flowers to profusion, wrought into a variety of very beautiful forms, adorned his casket, friends thus expressing through nature's tribute, their tender sympathy for the sorrowing family and relatives and their sincere regard for the departed one.

SANDFORD TELLS OF HIS VOYAGES.

Offering no word in his own defense, and apparently oblivious to the out-looks of the civil and criminal cases which are soon to bring him before the bar of justice, Rev. Frank Weston Sandford Monday outlined for The Associated Press the efforts which the Holy Ghost and his Society have been making in the past 17 months for the soul salvation of three continents—an undertaking which carried him and 35 of his faithful followers over 15,000 miles of turbulent seas, and brought them into touch with the anger of untutored savages and the armed strife of a civilized nation.

Members of the sect tend the blistering sands of the world's greatest desert and in the same season their fevered brows were cooled by the frothy blasts which swept from the shores of the great unexplored North.

Prayers always—prayers for the heathen who know no God, and pray for those people of our own civilization who know Him but have not come unto Him. Never in the whole 17 months of these wanderings was any effort made toward personal conversion to their creed.

"Long ago," said Mr. Sandford, "I realized the futility of saving this world's people by the ordinary methods of evangelism. The world was a mess, and I will tell them. The heathen are being born faster than missionaries can tell them there's a man named Jesus. We have resorted to prayer for the 40 millions inhabiting the shores we skirted—interceding for the workers who may care for them and the souls of the heathens for whom they may labor."

Mr. Sandford declined to discuss the charges which kept him virtually in prison for three days. He has given, he says, no serious thought to what the outcome may be to him personally, and counsel will intercede for him as far as any efforts of his own are concerned. If E. C. Osgood acts as attorney for the society on matters of legal interest, but whatever move he may make will be without any solicitation upon Mr. Sandford's part. This much he made plain.

"I have been in a rough and tumble fight, the same as any football player," said the man who has been styled Elijah. "I am leading a straight life before my God, and if He backs me I don't care what happens. This movement will undoubtedly cost me my life, but I am out for whatever the faith may be."

Asked as to the future of that movement, Mr. Sandford directed attention to the obvious uncertainty of his own future. "The work which began so humbly down at Bethel will never do so long as I have the power to direct it," he declared with dramatic earnestness.

In giving for the first time the narrative of his voyage during the past 17 months, Mr. Sandford divided them into five groups, comprehending, it may be seen, one of the most remarkable journey ever made by any person seeking to spread gospel in any form.

The first occupied the period from June to November, 1910, and took the modern Elijah from the vicinity of Cape Hatteras to Belle Isle, Newfoundland. The second voyage was begun in December, 1910, and lasted until February, during which period he left the shores of his native country and journeyed across tempestuous seas to the coast of Africa. Until the third group which permitted no interval for rest, he sailed along the west coast of Africa from Cape Job to Isla de Los, which he reached last April. The fourth cruise was during the months of May and June, and brought the Crusader's crew and that of the wrecked barkentine Kingdom back across the seas to Panama, ending along the South American shores. The fifth voyage lasting from July to October, was from the vicinity of Cape Horn to the Arctic regions and back to the home port which Mr. Sandford calls Port Royal and which residents of this State call South Portland.

This, in brief, is a summary of the adventures of that portion of the Holy Ghost and his Society which followed their Elijah over many seas, giving rise to wild rumors in many quarters.

HEINRICH MEYER COMMITTS SUICIDE.

Bethel people will be interested in the following as Mr. Meyer lived in town for sometime.

"Heinrich Meyer, a wealthy retired silk merchant, was found dead in his apartment in a Fifth Avenue hotel Oct. 28th as a result, it is believed, of cyanide poisoning. According to the coroner who investigated the circumstances surrounding his death, Mr. Meyer took the poison himself. A glass containing some white sediment declared to be cyanide was found on a table by the side of Mr. Meyer's body. On a table was a sealed letter addressed to his wife, with an open note, saying that his wife was at a physician's office and should be notified that he was 'very sick.' The body was discovered by his chauffeur and his secretary. Mr. Meyer was 65 years old.

The body was brought to Bethel for burial at Woodlawn cemetery, and short services were conducted by Rev. W. C. Curtis.

RECEPTION GIVEN MR. AND MRS. BARBER.

On Monday evening at the church parlor of the Universalist Church at Rumford, a reception was held for Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Barber, who have been in our midst for the past two years. The parlor was prettily decorated with art squares and couch covers over the settees to make them look more homelike and Mr. E. B. Barber the florist kindly contributed a half dozen beautiful chrysanthemums which were much appreciated by all that saw them.

The affair was most informal, there was no receiving line. Everyone just came in and made themselves at home and chatted with everyone else. Mrs. Barber was furnished throughout the evening by Miss Marguerite McKenna and Mr. Louis Irish which was very much enjoyed by all those present.

Refreshments of sherbet and cake were served by Mrs. Geo. Gates, Mrs. Ames, Mrs. Atwood, Mrs. Martha and Mrs. E. S. Kennard, assisted by Misses Louise Kidder, Louise Martin and Mrs. Chas. Brown. A most delightful time was enjoyed by all and the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Barber left wishing them the greatest possible success in their new home in Danbury, Conn. What is our loss in Danbury's gain is the sentiment of the people of Rumford in parting with Mr. and Mrs. Barber.

IDA ESTHER SMITH.

Ida Esther Smith ceased from her sufferings and passed to the Land of Peace, Wednesday morning, Oct. 18. She was the daughter of Charles and Harriet Smith and was born in Bethel fifty-five years ago. She has not been in good health for some years and she has failed steadily since the decease of her only brother last November.

In these later months she has been the care of her cousins, Mrs. I. H. Verill and Miss Lydia Peabody, and has looked for nothing that human hearts and hands could do for her.

Her life has been characterized by faithfulness in all the duties of a daughter, sister, friend and neighbor and by the patience and fortitude with which she bore the ill of life and especially the suffering of recent months.

Many kindred and friends and several benevolent institutions as well as the Congregational church of Bethel were remembered in her will.

She was buried from her old home on the West Bethel road Friday afternoon, Oct. 20, Rev. W. C. Curtis officiating at the funeral.

CARTER—KING.

Wednesday, Oct. 25, Mr. John W. Carter and Miss Ruth King of Bethel were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. King.

The house was attractively decorated with autumn leaves, evergreens and carnations. The officiating clergyman was Rev. J. H. Little and the singing service was sung.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white satin and carried tails of roses. Only the immediate relatives were present. The bride was the recipient of many valuable and beautiful presents. They left on the afternoon train for a short wedding journey. Their Bethel friends extend congratulations and wish them much happiness.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY AT ANDOVER.

The Halloween party given by the senior class of the high school, Andover, Monday evening, was a very enjoyable affair. The town hall was prettily decorated with the class colors green and white, while jack-o'-lanterns showed their weird lights through evergreens that everywhere prevailed. In case of the ladies, home-made candy was temptingly displayed for the purchaser, and a tub full of water on which they checked apples were bobbing stood in one corner ready for the daring young men or maid. And other stunts, fortune telling and amusements pertaining to all Halloween's eve, abounded. Later, the following instrumental music, was ably carried out.

HEART THRILLING GEMS.

One secret of a sweet and happy life is to live by the day. It is the long stretches that tire us. We think of life as a whole, running on for years. We cannot carry this load until we are three-score years and ten—we cannot fight this continually for half a century. But really there are no long stretches. Life does not come to us all at once. It comes only a day at a time—"Old Eng. Family Mag."

The slowest to promise is often the most faithful in keeping his word. No endeavor is in vain. Its reward is in the doing. And the reward of pursuing is the prize, the vanquished gain. —Shakespeare.

Earnest moral principle is the balance-wheel of character. It regulates and keeps the man in order. Kind words prevent a good deal of that preservation which rough and imperious usage often produces in generous minds.—Locke.

'Tis not what man does which exalts him, but what man would do.—Browning.

There is nothing so kindly as kindness, and nothing so loyal as truth.—Alice Cary.

Learn as if you were to live forever; Live as if you were to die to-morrow.

A man that has friends must show himself friendly; and there is a friend that attacketh closer than a brother.—Solomon.

To live well, you must be in the open air every day. Rain or shine, mud or dust, go out of your house, and see what God is doing outside.—Edward Everett Hale.

Absence of occupation is not rest. A vacant mind is a mind distressed.—Cowper.

The shortness of life is bound up with its fullness. It is to him who is most active, always thinking, feeling, working, caring for people and things, that life seems short. Strip a life empty, and it will seem long enough.—Phillips Brooks.

I expect to pass through this world but once. Any good thing, therefore, that I can do, or any kindness that I can show to any fellow creature, let me do it now. Let me not defer or neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again.—Edward Courtesay.

If we wish to be just judges of all things, let us first persuade ourselves of this: That there is not one of us without a fault.—Seneca.

Our doubts are traitors. And make us lose the good we oft might win, by fearing to attempt.—Shakespeare.

A true mark of a good heart is its capacity for loving.—Madame de Sevigne.

"I am an old man now; I've had lots of trouble, and most of it never happened."

Sombody did a golden deed; Sombody proved a friend in need; Sombody sang a beautiful song; Sombody smiled the whole day long; Sombody thought "Tis sweet to live!"

Sombody said, "I'm glad to give." Sombody fought a valiant fight; Sombody lived to shield the right; Was that sombody you?

BREAK MAN ILL.
Author Unknown.

Other people have their faults. And so have you as well; But all ye chance to see or hear Ye have no right to tell.

If ye cannot speak o' good, O! dinna speak at all; For there is grief and wee enough On this terrestrial ball.

If ye should feel like pecking down, Ye better go, 't would seem, And feed the hawk that tells ye About the mouse and bean.

Disseas'd a body may To gossip or to strife.

Or perhaps 't will make for ye Nas funny thing of life.

O! dinna shut to others' wee, Nor mock it with your mirth; But give ye kindly sympathy To suffering ones of earth.

MOVE FORWARD.

By Abbie Walker Gould.

Move forward! The hour has struck! Along the line of march There comes the trampling of myriad feet;

There comes the rush of many colored banners, There comes the undertone of voices, All triumphant, all jubilant, Which never brook defeat.

Move Forward!

By the martyred dead.

Who speak, though lips are still; By sorrows borne, when clouds hang low;

By hopes once crushed and hearts a-faint; By prayers, by tears, that could not move The hearts of stone untouched by love,

Move Forward!

Man cannot shut the gate, Upon the battlefield.

Beneath God's glorious sun The forces all are marshaled; His ark and His are pressing close, With face stern set, no power will lose;

But battling with the Truth and right Yield not until the day is won. Move Forward!

You have all to gain; Despair not, faint not; hands are broke;

Send courage all along the line; A thousand glories for you shine; You'll reap where you have sown with tears;

You'll gather up the scenes of years, And break for aye the tyrant's yoke.

Saved Child From Death.

"After our child had suffered from severe bronchial trouble for a year," wrote G. T. Richardson, of Richardson's Mills, Ala., "we feared it had consumption. It had a cough all the time. We tried many remedies without avail, and doctor's medicines seemed useless. Finally we tried Dr. King's New Discovery, and are pleased to say that our child effected a complete cure, and our child is again strong and healthy."

For coughs, colds, hoarseness, lagrippe, asthma, croup and sore lungs, it's the most infallible remedy that's made. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Chas. Fernald, Nathan Reynolds, Canton; H. J. Reynolds of Hildesville; A. Gardiner of Dixfield.

Making Insurance Maps.

In making insurance maps certain features are considered essential, and the growth of the system has proved their wisdom and changed them only as regards the amount of detail that has been incorporated. Of first importance were the colors to show the different materials used in the construction of a building. Naturally red seemed a proper color to signify brick and yellow to signify wood. These colors have always been employed for these materials. Other colors have been added from time to time, thus blue for stone, gray for iron, etc.

In fixing signs and characters for such details as stairways, fire escapes, dumb waiter shafts, etc., a principal object was to make them plain and distinct. They must be easily understood by an underwriter without reference to my key or marginal foot-notes.

A single object has been carried out, with the result that when these insurance maps are examined by an insurance man today each sign or character has such an individuality of its own that it can be easily distinguished and is not confused with another. Cassler's Magazine.

The Word "Fudge."

"Fudge" is a word with a history. There are prosaic etymologists, as there always are, who derive it from a Gaelic word meaning deception, but Isaac Disraeli, who is much more interesting. He derives it from a certain Captain Fudge, who seems to have been a marine Minuteman. "You fudge it" is said to have been his crew's equivalent to the modern "Balls!"

In a collection of some papers of William Crouch, the Quaker, published in 1712 it is recorded that one Gregory Marshall informed Crouch that "in the year 1664 we were sentenced for banishment to Jamaica" by Judges Hyde and Twicken, and our number was fifty-five. We were put on board the ship Black Eagle. The master's name was Fudge, by some called Lying Fudge."—London Standard.

The Leipzig Book Fair.

Leipzig is the largest publication center in the world. More books and periodicals are printed there than anywhere else, and more people are engaged in making and using printers' supplies than in London, New York, Berlin or Paris. Many of the orders for these publications come from England, France, Austria and other countries because the mechanical work can be done in Leipzig much cheaper than elsewhere. More than half of the transactions in books take place at the Leipzig book fair, which occurs every year at the jubilee, the first week in Easter, when booksellers and publishers from all parts of Germany assemble to compare and balance accounts and to make contracts for the next year.

A Hawkeye From Carlyle.

I used to see Carlyle when I lived as a child in Chelsea. I regarded him with extraordinary awe and fear. One day I was sent to post a letter. I suppose I was rather young, but I can remember it clearly. The impact told me that on the pavement, where I yielded for some minutes, though scolded eventually by England's great thinker. And then—this is the point of the story—Carlyle lived into his pockets, produced a halfpenny and said kindly, "Here is a Hawkeye for Holly!" I have the halfpenny to this day. When Mr. Carlyle died I was put into deep mourning. It was the first and perhaps the most interesting of all my street acquaintances—Robert Ross in London Dyalander.

Self Reliance.

The spirit of self help is the root of all genuine growth in the individual, and, exhibited in the lives of many, it constitutes the true source of national vigor and strength. Help from without is often unobtainable in the effort, but help from within invariably invincible. Whatever is done for men of classes to a certain extent takes away its stimulus and necessity of doing for themselves, and where men are subjected to overindulgence and over-career the inevitable tendency is to render them comparatively helpless.—Hammel Smith.

A Field at Hama.

A Boston gentleman was showing a West African who is interested in missionary work a number of photographs.

"What is this?" asked the visitor, gazing at one of them.

"Oh, that's a snapshot taken during a football scrimmage at 'the stadium.'"

"But has your church no missionaries to send among these people?" was the quick rejoinder. —Boston Transcript.

Cruikshank's Long Artistic Life.

To 1861 Cruikshank was asked by the committee who exhibited his "Worship of Baalsham" to associate with that work some of his early drawings in order to prove that he was not his own grand father.—Chambers' "Cruikshank."

Getting in Debt.

Barney is hard, but that is his trouble; a man might as well have a smoky house and a scolding wife, which are said to be the two worst evils of our life. —Spurgeon.

Pretty Pass.

Hicks-Shaffer is talking of purchasing an automobile. Wicks-Shaffer: Why, he couldn't buy a charge of anything but an air gun! —Boston Transcript.

A wise man should have money in his hand, but not in his heart.—Dean Swift.

RUMFORD.

The Searchlight Club will meet with Mrs. F. H. Carroll on Friday afternoon at her home on Franklin street. Mrs. J. E. W. Clark will be the leader and the afternoon will be given to Shaker songs.

Miss Bertha Tribon finishes her work with the Maine Tel. & Tel. Co. Saturday night and expects to take a vacation for a few weeks.

The Altogether Club will meet with Miss Lena Felt at her home in the McKee Block next Monday evening.

Mrs. J. E. W. Clark is working afternoons of this week for A. E. Stearns in his office.

Mrs. R. M. Woodsum returned the first of the week from Bangor, where she has been the guest of Mrs. Phil Bates and Mrs. Fred Smith.

Last Friday evening the Searchlight Club met with Mrs. Geo. W. Pettengill at Ardmore and the afternoon was given over to Clives. Each member of the club had the privilege of inviting one guest. The afternoon was most pleasantly spent as well as instructive.

The Daughters of Queen Esther met on Tuesday evening at the parsonage with Mrs. Pettie and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed.

R. T. Parker went to Penn. on Tuesday on business.

N. O. Foster spent Monday in Auburn on business.

The Ladies' Aid of the Universalist Church held a rummage sale in the W. C. T. U. Building on Bridge street, and cleared quite a considerable sum. It is their intention to continue this sale on Saturday afternoon of this week.

Miss Frances Wheat who has been confined to her home for the past few weeks on account of illness is somewhat improved in health.

G. D. Bisbee will go to Auburn, Friday, on business.

The front of the Mechanics Institute Building certainly represented a most festive appearance for the three days of the fair the entire upper part of it being hung with festoon lights of different colors which made the spectacle very alluring to all who passed by and a long string extended clear across the street to the Powers Co's Building. The fair opened on Wednesday night with a large attendance and the booths zealously showed the objects of work and care the ladies had expended in making them attractive.

The Y. P. C. U. of the Universalist Church held a Halloween social in the church parlor on Tuesday evening for the members of the Union to say a last farewell to Rev. E. E. Barber and wife. The room was appropriately decorated for the affair in orange and black and games were played, one of them being a cobweb hunt which all joined in with a good deal of zest. At the end of each string was found a card with an appropriate quotation but on the end of Mr. and Mrs. Barber's was found a brass candle stick, which was a parting gift from the members of the Union to them. Both Mr. and Mrs. Barber have worked hard and faithfully with the Union and in another department will they be more missed than in this. It is with profound sadness that the members of the Y. P. C. U. bid them farewell.

Beginning on Nov. 1st, Mrs. E. C. Gowan will sing at the Baptist Church each Sunday.

The Sunday school and the Y. P. C. U. of the Universalist Church will be in session next Sunday although there will be no preaching services.

Don't forget Israel's great sale. Mr. Madden of Boston is the agent for the new Water District and he with H. L. Elliott and C. P. Eaton of the Power Co. are making tests throughout the town on the hydrants and mains.

It was reported on Tuesday that a dead moose was in Roxbury Pond, presumably he was shot and wounded and went into the water and there died. Mrs. A. H. Williamson of Farmington is the guest of Mrs. F. O. Eaton for a week.

Mrs. Mills of Woodford was the guest of her daughter, Miss Grace Mills over Sunday.

Geo. D. Bisbee left Friday for Boston. While in that city he will be the guest of his grandson, Spaulding Bisbee, who is attending Boston University.

The teachers left Thursday for Augusta to attend the State Convention. Mr. and Mrs. W. S. N. Ellingwood spent a few days at Bar Harbor, their old home, before going to Augusta, Thursday.

On Wednesday evening at McMeena Hall the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. St. Pierre gave them a reception and dance. There was a large crowd present and a fine time was enjoyed, music and readings were also the order of the evening.

On Friday at the Oxford Mill, Jas. Robertson got his hand taken off in one of the machines. Mr. Robertson was at work on one of the paper machines and in some way his hand caught and was cut clean off his arm.

Mr. H. L. Elliott has begun his work for the new Water District. He is getting an inventory of the number of hydrants and various other important items for the company.

Mrs. W. W. Small of Lowell, Mass., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. O. A. Pettengill for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Barber left on Wednesday for their new home in Danbury, Mass. Mrs. Barber will go to No. Orange, Mass., her old home for a few weeks rest before joining Mr. Barber in Danbury, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Barber will be a great loss to the community at large as well as in their own church and their many friends regret much to see them leaving but will not forget them nor the work they have accomplished since leaving in our midst. They take with them the best wishes of the townspeople for their success in their new field of labor.

Mrs. E. H. Brown returned home the first of the week after a few weeks visit in West Paris and Bethel, much improved in health.

Mrs. Frank White of Auburn was the guest of friends in town over Sunday.

Mrs. F. O. Walker spent Sunday at Oxford the guest of Mrs. J. S. Quate.

Dr. Sheehy attended a dental convention in Portland, Thursday and Friday, of last week.

Mrs. J. E. Stephens is in Lewiston, undergoing treatment for a sprained knee.

The young ladies of the Sepsovere have held a candy sale on Thursday afternoon at Stephens' store and cleared about seven dollars, the proceeds of this sale are to go for the benefit of the Athletic Association.

On Monday evening, Oct. 23rd, Mr. Eliza Pratt was very pleasantly surprised at his home on Franklin street by his associates in the bank. The occasion was the birthday of Mr. Pratt and Mrs. Pratt invited the bank employees to celebrate the day. The young people met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pratt and went from there in a body. Mr. Pratt was banished to an upper room by his wife on the plea that supper was not ready and that he had better read his paper. The guests arrived and were all seated at the table when Mr. Pratt was summoned.

ed and the room was in darkness when he came in and his surprise was complete when he found the lights on and faced the company. A few expressions of astonishment and other remarks were made by all of the people, but before the supper was over Mr. Pratt was the center of the party and the subject of many words and appreciative remarks, and the party here wishing Mr. Pratt many happy returns of the day.

DYNAMITING STUMPS.

Farmers Are Enabled to Weak Vengeance on Old Enemies by New Methods—Great Care Necessary.

There is a profound satisfaction in blowing out stumps, particularly if they have been in the way for quite a number of years. One learns to hate them well as he plows corn among them or runs the planter or harrower or mower.

It is expensive to blow out green oak stumps, but after they have stood a few years and some of the roots have decayed then it is easy to bore beneath them with a two inch auger, insert a cartridge or two of dynamite, tamp with a wooden tamper the earth back in the hole and apply a match to the fuse.

Then comes a time of anxious suspense. Has the fuse burned, has it gone out, will the dynamite never explode? Meanwhile, though you have run quite a little way, you keep steadily walking backward farther and farther from the suspected stump and charge of dynamite. And at last, with no warning, comes the terrific blast, the great cloud of smoke, the shower of clods. You run back and find the stump lifted squarely out or else maybe so shattered that it will be easy now to set it on fire and burn it out.

These few things have been learned it pays to take care to get well under the stump before you insert the cartridge. It pays to use enough dynamite. Often two or more sticks are needed to dislodge a tough proposition. Of this one will learn by practice. It pays to take great care in attaching the fuse to the cartridge by means of the cap thrust into the side of the stick.

After the Explosion.

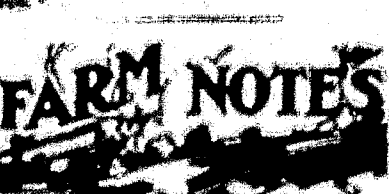

of dynamite, the fuse in the cap and a stout string to hold them all firmly in place. It is great fun blowing out stumps, and if one uses care in handling his dynamite and the caps, which are almost as dangerous, he need have no accident. In case a charge fails to go off leave it alone for a day; then put another charge near it. Do not try to bore out that hole again.

Dynamite will not explode when it is cold. The best way to warm it and to keep it warm is to place it in a vessel of warm water, not on the fire, but away from the fire. A bucket all of with quite warm water may be carried to the field and the cartridges laid within. Water will not hurt the dynamite. Do not try to "thaw" dynamite near a fire or with any other heat than water.

Protect Calves From Flies. During hot, dry weather, when flies are troublesome, it pays to let the calves stay inside all day and let them run in the yards or pasture at night.

When to Extract Honey. Never extract honey before at least two-thirds of the comb is sealed or capped over, otherwise the honey is not ripe enough and will ferment.

Hive Precautions. Stand at the side of the hive and not in front of it while handling your bees.

By placing boards under the squash vines the squash bugs will collect under them cool mornings and they can be easily scraped off and killed.

Take your boys in partnership with you, name the farm and make the products worthy of the farm's name. You will doubtless find that the boys will put new life into work and perhaps make it more profitable in all concerned. Try it at any rate.

Fruit growing is a splendid industry for boys and girls who wish to earn money on the farm. Ask your father to give you an acre or two and help you prepare the land for fruit. A good orchard will bring you in money and teach you horticulture, the most refined branch of agriculture.

One-half acre of berries—blackberries, dewberries, raspberries or straw berries—will make enough clear money an average season to buy all of the clothing that the children will need. Prepare an acre of land for berries and help the children get it in. Be sure you give the children the proceeds of the crop.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Cummings of Remus were in town for the week and returned Saturday. Mr. Cummings devotes nearly all his time to the Remus works.

The members of the Modern Woodmen of America took the town by storm Tuesday. The various delegations came from the four quarters and enjoyed the good things of the town for twenty-four hours in first class shape.

The Supreme Organizer of the United States, Ralph E. Johnson, of Lincoln, Nebraska, was the guest of honor of Norway camp, No. 10335. The Norway members and visitors, headed by the Bridgton Band, escorted their guests from the Remus' House to the Orange Block on Whitman Street, where the work, banquet and speeches were enjoyed by the large attendance.

Among others were A. O. Palmer of Burlington, Vt., State Deputy; G. C. Woods of Bangor, District Deputy; Geo. W. Holmes of Norway, State Council, and Frank A. Webb of Bridgton, National Delegate.

"It is a pleasure to tell you that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best cough medicine I have ever used," writes Mrs. Hugh Campbell, of Lewiston, Me. "I have used it with all my children and the results have been highly satisfactory." For sale by W. E. Hennessey.

WHAT I WENT
THROUGHBefore taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.Natick, Mass. "I cannot express what I went through during the change of life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition
I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had crossed sensations,
and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman.
My neighbors and friends declare I had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish my letter."—MRS. NATHAN B. CHEATON, 11 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence.
Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.If you would like special advice about your case written confidentially letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

A Burglar's Awful Deed

A burglar has stolen a home so complete
as a mother's long illness. But Dr.
King's New Life Pills are a splendid remedy for women. "They gave me wonderful benefit in constipation and female trouble," wrote Mrs. T. M. Danley, of Lehigh, Tenn. If ailing, try them. 25c at

GOOD REASON.

A young Boston lawyer who is engaged to be married met another young lawyer who was married away last week, and the latter's words were
"The only thing that bothers me," explained the about to be happy man,
"is the subject of expense. Oh, yes, I'm not plunging into this thing with my eyes shut, but—""Now, look here," interrupted the experienced bachelorette. "I'll tell you an absolute fact. I don't spend half the money I did before I was married.""How do you work that?"
"I don't have it to spend," the latter replied.

IS YOUR LIVER OK?

Is your liver OK? An irritable, faulty digestive system is often due to a disordered stomach. A man who eats digestion is never always good natured. A great many have been permanently cured of stomach trouble by taking Chamberlain's Tablets. For BREEDING HEALTHY POULTRY.

Give Them Plenty of Exercise by Allowing Them to Run Where They Like and Forage For Food.The great difficulty with most breeders of poultry is to keep up the vigor of the stock equal to that of the ordinary grade. So much breeding close houses and artificial handling in general are considered necessary by many breeders that the stock gradually loses vitality and causes trouble with poor hatching, chicks dying in their shells, poor development of the birds or with appearance of various diseases which impair the vitality of the stock and lessen the profits of the business.The stock should be kept in small coops scattered over the farm and also allowed to run where they like. In this way they will secure all the exercise and forage required. Of course during the breeding season it is necessary to confine the breeding flocks for the few months, but mature flocks stand the confinement very much better than growing stock.This plan also permits hatching and raising thousands of chicks yearly under one management, thus securing plenty of birds to select from each year. It is the simplest of all systems, but used for the highest type of poultry breeding.

FOUNTAIN FOR CHICKS.

Simple and Ingenious Device Can Be Made Out of Lard Pail—Very Useful in Keeping Water Clean.A poultry fountain can be easily made from a five pound lard pail with a nail hole through the rim and inverted in the lid of a ten pound pail.
The two parts are clamped together with a piece of roofing steel, as shown

Easily Made Chick Fountain.

In cut. The hole in pail is just below the edge of the lid in which it sets.
To fill pail back steel clamp and remove lid, fill pail, replace, lid and clamp, then invert and the water will flow out through the hole until the fill and covers hole. Then it stops until chicks drink water below opening again.

POULTRY NOTES

Ventilate your fowl houses. Pure air is as necessary to the health of birds as rain and sunshine are necessary to plant production.Gravel has been demonstrated "chick teeth." It is certainly necessary for food digestion. Give the fowls a constant supply of it.Only the troughs of the gallbladder should be plucked unless they are very early hatched, and they should not be plucked too late in the fall and allowed to stiver around in the cold.One of the secrets of successful breeding is never to keep useless stock.
As soon as the laying season is over fatten the hens for the table or market. Young cocks should be treated the same way between the ages of three and five months.Hens are plucked three or four times in one season, the first time to pluck them being as soon as the laying season is over and as soon again as the feathers are ripe the growth of new feathers on the plucking depending on the food and care of the fowls.Chickens are a great abundance and should be used freely in the diet of the water. A little powdered charcoal fed occasionally will greatly assist in maintaining the health of the fowls.The best plan is to have a sandy and when food is being mixed, put in a scoopful to the mash. This should be done once or twice a week.An old poultryman once said that a fowl saturated with common salt and water would be a good deal better than a fowl saturated with common salt and water.When a setting hen is placed in the street of the fowl as it breathes it is a remedy a few times and the result will in all probability exempt your entire flock from that dread disease, camp.

LIVE STOCK

A SCARCE SPECIES.

Karakul Sheep Religiously Guarded
by Asiatic Breeders—Fur One of the Costliest in World.The Arabi or Karakul sheep, originating in Bokhara, central Asia, belong to the long wool family, from which all broad tail varieties descend.
These sheep crossed on the natives of any country result in a high grade of mutton and in costly Asiatic furs. Dr.
O. C. Young of Texas has made a careful study of the value of these Karakul sheep to the live stock interests of America. As is well known, it is exceedingly difficult to secure breeding stock from central Asia, as these animals are religiously guarded. He succeeded, however, in bringing fifteen bucks to America, and they are now on his ranch in northwestern Texas.Dr. Young is convinced by his own observation and by experiments in the country, as well as in the old world, that the best results can be secured by crossing the Karakul bucks on some of the long wool breeds, particularly the Lincolnshire, although excellent furs have been secured from

TREATING CATTLE DISEASE.

Don't Wait Until It Spreads to Entire Herd—Find Out Symptoms and Then Take Precautions.Practically speaking, but few years have elapsed since it was believed by the average stockman that certain diseases when once introduced into a herd meant its total destruction.While there is no question of doubt in the minds of the stockmen of today but that some diseases are more destructive than others, great progress is being made in enlightening the stock raiser as to how to proceed in protecting his stock against disease and overcoming the terms which may unfortunately have been introduced into the herd.The successful stock raiser does not wait for disease to take hold of his herd, but takes all precaution possible in preventing it. If for some reason he has been betrayed and disease has entered his herd he immediately becomes active in taking steps for preventing its spread.When an animal which has been in apparently the best of health is taken with a high fever, followed by severe chills, with skin at an uneven temperature, and animal continues to weaken until death ensues, the owner is at once convinced that danger is confronting him, and, realizing that these are symptoms of the contagious, destructive disease known as anthrax, he readily decides to have the entire herd vaccinated with anthrax vaccine.If there is an animal in the herd which continues to cough or shows signs of emaciation he has his herd thoroughly tested, in this way determining as to whether the rest of the animals have become infected with the germs of tuberculosis, and in many cases has his herd tested regardless of outward symptoms in order that he may be absolutely safe.If any of the herd shows signs of abortion, which disease does not necessarily need to be determined by animals in the herd actually aborting, but can be determined by properly examining the animal to see if such germs are existing, or, on the other hand, if the owner purchases an animal which has come out of a herd which he knows has had abortion, he knows that it is to his interest to treat the animal accordingly and thoroughly inspect the entire herd so that
